

Settlement

Michigan's pioneers came to settle and farm the cheap land between 1800-1835. This gallery shows how advancements in transportation—from horses to ships to attempts at better roads—helped the state's rapid growth at this time. Visitors can try the “plank road ride” to get a feel for the long, arduous, bumpy trips the early settlers endured.